Marianne Radcliff represents clients before the Commonwealth's executive and legislative branch agencies, boards and commissions, as well as the Virginia General Assembly. Her practice centers on transportation, economic development, procurement, regulatory, and state budget issues.

Marianne has more than 25-years of private sector experience. While with the Commonwealth of Virginia she served in the Office of the Secretary of Transportation and as the Legislative Liaison for the Transportation Secretariat during the successive administrations of Governors George Allen and James S. Gilmore. Marianne also served in the Office of the Director at the Virginia Department of Aviation. During her tenure, she worked with federal, state and local legislative and regulatory officials to develop and further Virginia transportation policy.

In 2017 Governor-elect Ralph S. Northam appointed Marianne as the Director of his Transition and Chair of his Transition Committee. She worked pro bono from Election Day through Inauguration recruiting administration personnel and developing an initial policy agenda.

Marianne was appointed by Governor Ralph S. Northam to the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia in July 2019 and the Virginia Economic Development Partnership's Board of Directors in July 2020. She was appointed to Longwood University Board of Visitors in July 2011 by Governor Robert F. McDonnell and reappointed by Governor Terence R. McAuliffe. She served as rector of the board for two separate two-year terms. She served as the Vice-Chairman of the Virginia Aviation Board to which she was appointed by Governor Mark R. Warner in July 2003 and reappointed by Governor Timothy M. Kaine in July 2007. She has also served on the boards of numerous non-profit organizations.

Marianne earned her Master of Public Administration degree with a specialization in public law from Bowling Green State University and is a graduate of Longwood University. She is a 1998 graduate of the Sorenson Institute for Political Leadership at the University of Virginia.

Marianne has been to all 50 United States and all 13 Presidential Museums of the National Archives. She enjoys reading and listening to audiobooks, especially biographies. Marianne lives in Richmond with her husband Matthew and their rescue mutt, Skipper.
